THE FESTIVAL I LIKED THE MOST

"Festivals are our Pride and heritage."

Our country is regarded to be a nation with various cultures and customs. It is a nation of various religion such as Hindu, Sikh, Muslim, Christians, Jain, etc. Our regional expansion is very high. Here, we all celebrate the festivals with brotherhood, truthfulness, dutifulness and with affection. There are many festivals, such as Deepawali, Holi, Id, etc. Independence day and Republic day are the two festivals of this whole nation I liked most. Holi to play with different colours and balloons. This is a festival of Colours. It is a national wide festival. On this day, all the people forget all the enemies and play with all togetherly, with brotherhood. This is also a symbol of nationality. On this day, we make various sweets and Pray to our God and goddess as we do on other festivals. This year also, holi is coming soon to us. It is on 20 March, 2019. So, I am very exciting about this. I feel very joyful and comfortable to know about this. Hence, it is the best festival "Holi Aayi, Khushiyaayi".

CLEAN ENVIRONMENT, WATER & HEALTH

The picture relates to cleanliness. Cleanliness is the most important factor. Clean environment keeps us healthy. If our surrounding is not clean, then water reservoir become polluted due to harmful chemicals coming out from Industries, and smoke from vehicles. This all spreads water borni diseases such as Dengue, Malaria, chicken guinea, zika & Viral disease. These diseases causes great loss to a man's life. Hence we should prevent water pollution. Because water is a precious resource. Although our Government has started various program related to water prevention, from pollution. But, it is not only the work of Government. It is a social matter. So, to bring fit and healthy, we should drink clean water and prevent water from being polluted. If we all do so, then we will become healthy and it is said that a healthy mind resides in a healthy body only. So, we have to pledge for water conservation. Given that:- "Jan Jan Ne Sambhal, Jal Sanachayek ki kamaan, Ab Aam Badhega Bharat ka, Maan.

Title 'A man's True son':-

This title is appropriate. In the story, the old man has many sons, grandsons and great grandsons. He gave all of them much help to grow up in the life. But they all didn't follow the principles of the old man. They didn't follow the right path as the old man wants. But a thief that came to his house to steal things was converted into a kind man by the old man. He gave him help with some money however he came to cheat him. This kindness converts the thief heart. Then after that day, he left all the evil days, and start making his earning with good works and soon he become prosperous. And along with this, he helps other needy man and shows same kindness to others as the man do. Thus, he was regarded his 'true son'. Thus it is a efficient title.

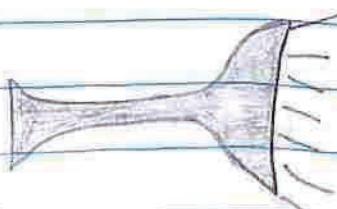

'Thence, A true son is who, inspired from the old man and showed same type of kindness to others who need?'

q) Good ----- long.

Reference :-

These opening lines has been taken from the poem 'An Elegy on the death of a Mad dog'. It is composed by famous poet Oliver Goldsmith.

Context :-

In these lines, the poet wants to tell a story about a good man and a dog living in Islington town.

Explanation :-

In the opening stanza, the poet urges to the all good people of all kinds or sorts to give ear to his wonderful story. They have to listen it. He urges them that if you all find it a little wonderful or interesting, then it will be completed in a short time. It will be no longer that binds you. So, the poet wanted that all people listen his poem.

Main :- • The poet express humorous along with elegy.
• Alliteration is expressed such as sort, song and short.

b) What _____ unhappy?

The poet in the poem expresses his feelings about his life. One he fell into grief or evil days and he became poor or poverty grappled him into his web like a cob in a cob web. Then the poet want to take help from this friends, acquaintances and companions doesn't help him. They became indifferent from him and were shy. They only gave him good counsel, but didn't want to help him with money. The poet had a believe in his friends, but all is in vain and the friends didn't help. As says in poem Companions were shy and acquaintances were cold. So, all these makes the poet unhappy.

c) What _____ poem?

As a beginning, the good man and the dog were friends. They lived with courtesy. By a pique, they develop enemy later. This was their personal matter. As a result of taking revenge, dog bite him. Then, the the neighbours regarded the dog as a mad dog. They had a strong belief that the man would die.

as he was bitten by a mad dog. But in the end a thing that happened is that the man recovers from the pain that was caused by bitten by the dog. And the dog who bit the man dies. It is a strange thing. It is believed that the man is very much poisonous than the dog. It is said in last lines that "But the man recover'd bite, the dog as a result die" It is the most strange thing to be happen. Hence, it is a strange event.

25) b) "The Imp and the Peasant's Bread"

The lesson given by the story "The Imp and the Peasant's Bread" is that "Excess of everything is harmful". As soon as the peasant has more coin, then after the advice of the Imp, he started undertaking harmful work of making vodka. He invited his friends to celebrate. They drank and behave just like jokers, started praising one another in wrong manner. As so No sooner the peasant had more excess vodka, than he drank and fell into the mud as a host and filling himself with mud from top to bottom, acting like a pig and creating strange noises. After drinking excess vodka, he also became aggressive and starts showing passion. When his wife joins along with vodka, he cried on her, "you foolish lady? Do you think this delicious drink has dirty rooster. He shouted loudly. In this way, he had no control on his body, mind and behaviour. Excess money also harms the relation between husband and wife like the peasant. So, excess is no true. we have to become punctual to our time and never be proud. This is the strong lesson of the story about excessiveness.

26) a)

Write — nature?

Anil was a kind man. He is a thin, tall person. When Harsi Singh met him, he was watching a wrestling match. Harsi Singh praised him by saying that he looks like a wrestler. Anil also praised him as a wrestler. He taught Harsi Singh about reading, learning and writing a full sentence. He also taught him cooking the food. He trusts Harsi Singh and gave him the key to the door to come in or out as he (Harsi Singh) wish. He also neglects the Harsi Singh's making money from the daily's supply. He ~~too writes~~ writes magazines. He made money by fits and starts. He borrowed one month and lends next. As soon as he got money, he got out and celebrate. Also, after Harisingh stole his money, he made tea for Harisingh and also gave him fifty rupees to go to cinema or else. Thus, he is a caring character. He transforms a thief's heart.
