Reference: This stanza has been taken from the poem 'My Mother at sixty six' composed by 'Kamala Das'.

Context: In this stanza the poet tells about her mother that her face is wan and pale like late winter's moon and also tells about her pain that she feels on seeing her mother face.

Explanation: The poet says that she went to a Cochin airport and at the airport after the security check she saw her mother's face standing a few yards away. She says that her mother's face was wan and pale like a late winter's moon and also look hazy and obscure and lack of shine and strength. On seeing her mother's pale face the poet felt her old familiar ache of losing her mother but he tried to conceal herself and said to her mother see you soon ~~an~~ Amma and smiled at her. A Thing of BeautyTheme :

The poem 'A Thing of Beauty' composed by a very renowned poet 'John Keats' represents that any beautiful thing is treasured in our mind because it gives us eternal and everlasting joy. A thing of beauty is like a endless fountain of nectar pours onto us from heaven. A thing of beauty has a therapeutic quality and it soothes us. A thing of Beauty comes into different ways the sun, the moon, old and young trees etc. It removes the pall of dark spirit and binds us to earth. It gives us everlasting joy and peace.
